This trio of young cows are typical of the quality in the Aschermann herd. It is easy to see why Sue-K Shorthorns have been so profitable for their owners.

A Word from the Sale Manager . . .

Shorthorns and Clyde Aschermann became a profitable partnership 21 years ago when the herd was founded with a female purchased from Jutkins Bros. Since that time, the Sue K herd has disseminated improving Shorthorns over a wide area of the Midwest.

This herd has been a regular consignor to the strong South Central Illinois Shorthorn Association sales as well as a supporter of other consignment sales in the area. The fact that Sue K Shorthorns have done well for their new owners is a great recommendation for this herd. However, their record is not surprising. Three improving imported sires have been used since 1950, and the herd has been continually strengthened through the retention of the best home-bred heifers and frequent strong female additions.

Only because of the pressure of other business interests is this near dispersion being held. However, Clyde's great love for Shorthorns and the growing interest of his grandson have prompted him to retain a small group of females . . . not necessarily the top individuals but a member of each of his top cow families.

Dispersions always offer great buying opportunities. This will be the case on October 19th when the public will have the chance to buy the good Aschermann cattle in their working clothes . . . ready to make money for far sighted buyers.

Mark this date on your calendar and be sure to attend.

DON LONGLEY

Kerry Pate is shown with Sue-K Broadhooks 2nd, Lot 39 in this sale. This good show heifer, also seen on our cover, sells.

22 Ribbons!

Kerry Pate, 11, grandson of Clyde Aschermann, is shown above with Sue K Broadhooks 2nd, a heifer in his show herd this year. This energetic young Shorthorn enthusiast won 22 ribbons this summer with his cattle at the Moultrie-Douglas County Fair, the Macon County Fair, and the Sullivan 4-H and Junior Livestock Show.

This is the first time the Aschermann family has exhibited at fairs. The show success of the Sue K cattle is a fine testimonial to the quality in the herd. All of the show heifers are being offered in this sale.

Millhill's Humorist, the first imported bull used by Clyde Aschermann. He is represented in this sale with four daughters.

A GOOD TIME TO BUY

This year has marked a turning point in the Shorthorn business. Our breed is on the move! 1963 has been a banner year for Shorthorns in interbreed steer competition. There is a renewed enthusiasm for Shorthorns in both the range areas and farm belts.

More and more commercial producers are turning to Shorthorn bulls to improve the quality and profit potential of their herds. The future outlook for the Shorthorn bull and female trade looks good . . . especially for those who can supply breeding stock of top quality.

Now is the time to set your herd right.

BARCLAY CLIPPER 5th — We bought this cow as a heifer from John Schirding and she has had three calves for us and will have another before sale time. Her last heifer will sell in this sale. We think you will like her.

These good headed, soggy calves are typical of the quality annually offered in the South Central Illinois Shorthorn Ass'n Club Calf Sale. Aschermann calves have been an important part of past sales. A number of good 4-H heifer and steer project calves will sell in this sale.

Buy Shorthorns

The Fall season is always a good time to buy cows. Of course every season is a good time to buy Shorthorn cows . . . especially the kind being offered in this near dispersion.

If you have some stock fields to clean up, you can use these cows to advantage and at the same time establish or strengthen a registered cattle herd.

With more and more of the feeder calves from western range areas going into the new and extensive commercial feedlots of the West, local cattle feeders must look to herds in their own immediate areas for their feeder and stocker supplies.

This means a great opportunity for the midwestern commercial cow-and-calf man and for the registered breeder. The market for good registered and commercial Shorthorns is on the upswing. Get on the Shorthorn band wagon by taking advantage of the rich imported blood being offered in this sale.
